Washington, D.C.

Members of the Law School community wore yellow arm bands at the diploma ceremony in May in honor of Elizabeth Prostic, JD '05, a remarkable student and friend. A devoted wife to Michael Lundblad and mother to daughter Harper, born June 10, 2004, Prostic passed away March 31 after battling stage-four metastatic breast cancer. A skilled debater, she balanced evening classes at the Law School with being a managing director of Sonnenschein, Nath and Rosenthal's lobbying practice. Prostic was passionate about bipartisan political action, and worked for Sen. Bob Dole (R-Kan.), Sen. John McCain (R-Ariz.), the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation, and the Commerce Department. She also was an advocate for women in science. On June 4, more than 30 people represented "Team Lizzie" in the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation's National Race for the Cure. Her husband is spearheading the effort to launch a Web site in her honor; www.metacancer.org combines information, art, and poetry to emphasize movement and hope—a fitting tribute to a lively and graceful former dancer who was constantly in motion.
